Collaboration between the SCiP Alliance and the SCISS network

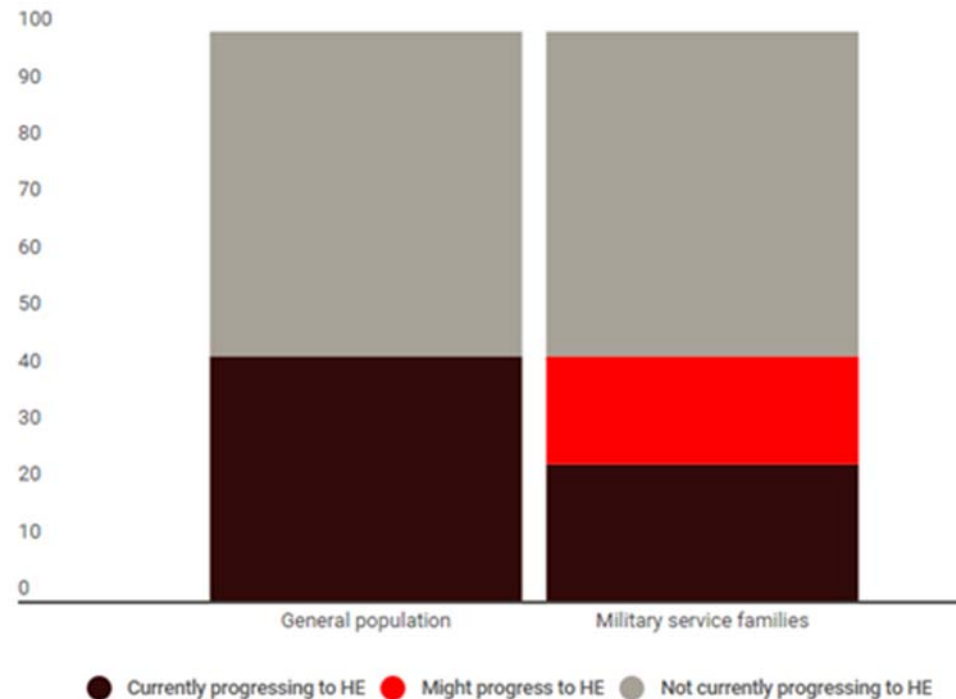

KATHERINE LAWRENCE

SCIP ALLIANCE MANAGER

What makes service children great potential HE students?

The challenge

Around 4 in 10 children from military families who have the ability to go to university do not do so*.

* McCullouch and Hall, 2016, Further and Higher Progression for Service Children, University of Winchester

The HE sector context

- c. £725 million expenditure on access, success and progression*

- New OFFA guidance includes:

‘Children from military families where they face specific issues that might affect their access to higher education.’

*OFFA 2015

Predicted to rise to £750.9 million in the academic year 2019-20

Champion the progression of the children of military personnel, so that they can make informed and confident transitions through further and higher education into thriving adult lives and careers.

The SCiP Alliance provides

- A UK-wide strategy
- A research hub and a practice hub
- An online resource
- A voice for service children and those supporting their progression

Collaboration

- SCISS is represented on the SCiP Alliance board and practice group
- The SCiP Alliance is represented on the SCISS NEAC
- Conference collaboration
