

Service Children's Progression

Why?

- Service children are around one third less likely to go to university than the general population
- Over 75,000 service children are educated in over 10,000 schools

How?

- We undertake research to inform better practice
- We connect people to support collaboration
- We speak up for professionals to improve policy

Service Children's Progression

We bring people together to support children from armed forces families so that they can make informed and confident progress through further and higher education into thriving lives and careers.

The SCiP Alliance:

- An online resource bank
- Policy and research briefings
- Practice hubs across the UK
- Conferences and events
